

All the class variables are defined as private parameters. The manager does not have any attributes, As its job is to distribute the alerts and thus not required to do anything more than this. The dataStorage element is assumed to be made outside the scope of this uml diagram.

All the necessary parts of alert which should have a getter and setter, are designed to have them. Most parts should be set during creation and that is the reason they do not have